Homeopathic Detoxifiers & Combinations

“Homeopathy cures a larger percentage of cases than any other method...and is beyond all doubt safer, more economical and the most complete medical science”- Gandhi

Did you know that Homeopathy is the second most widely used system of medicine in the world? In England and the Netherlands homeopathy is even included in the National Health Service!

In England, 42% of the countries-physicians refer patients to homeopaths. The Royal family itself has used homeopathy for three generations! In France, over 18,000 physicians prescribe homeopathic remedies. There are seven medical schools offering post graduate degrees in Homeopathy, and all pharmacies carry homeopathic remedies. India has over 70,000 board certified homeopathic physicians, hundreds of homeopathic hospitals and clinics, and many homeopathic medical schools.

Why do these, and so many other countries, value this form of medicine?

1. Homeopathy is extremely effective. When the correct remedy is taken, results can be rapid, complete and permanent.

2. Homeopathy is completely safe. Infants and pregnant women can use Homeopathy without the danger of side effects. Homeopaths can also be taken at the same time as other medications without producing unwanted side effects.

3. Homeopathy is natural. It works with your immune system, unlike some conventional medicines, which suppress the immune system (e.g. Cough medicines-suppress the cough reflex, which is your body's attempt to clear the lungs).

4. Homeopathic remedies are not addictive. Once relief is felt, you should stop taking them. If no relief is felt, you probably need a different homeopathic remedy.

5. Homeopathy is holistic. It treats all the symptoms as one, or addresses the cause, not the symptoms.

A fuller understanding of homeopathic pharmacology helps us to really grasp the energy medicine model. The human body operates with a complex, and at the same time, simple, vital force. Energy animates the body and causes the cells to talk to each other in order for things to operate as they should. Well-being depends on our keeping this vital force operating at its maximum equilibrium.

Homeopathic preparations are produced through a process known as “potentization”, where upon the original substance is diluted and “succeeded” or shaken. Depending on the potency desired this process will be repeated. In this way, the “etheric energy” in the substance is freed to interact with the energy of the body.

With that basic concept in mind, let's now consider the three principles basic to homeopathic medicine:

- 1. Like cures like. A substance given in large crude doses will produce specific symptoms. When this same material has been reduced in size, and administered in minute doses, it will stimulate the body's reactive processes to remove these same symptoms (e.g. “Ipecacuanha” will create nausea in large doses and relieve nausea in small doses).
- 2. Minimal Dose. The remedy is taken in an extremely diluted form; normally one part of the remedy to around 1,000,000,000,000 parts of water.
- 3. The Single Remedy. Even if many symptoms are being experienced, generally only one remedy is taken. The one remedy targets all the symptoms. To illustrate, consider how homeopathics function effectively with insomnia. A person may be very excited or happy and not be able to “turn off” their mind at night when it’s time for bed. “Coffea Cruda” is derived from unroasted coffee beans, which, of course, can cause symptoms of insomnia. Insomnia is simply a symptom of an imbalance in the the vital force, or “energy” which animates the body.

When an insomniac is given the homeopathic remedy “Coffea Cruda” the energy of the remedy resonates with the existing state of imbalance being experienced. The vital force is provoked to throw off the energy of the remedy, and along with it—the existing imbalance. The imbalance is “cleared” and sleep is improved.

Why, then, doesn’t everyone take homeopathic preparations? Good question! One of the main reasons may be that homeopathics generally take a bit longer to function than conventional medicines. It is also very personalized, usually requiring a trained natural health care professional’s assistance.

Homeopathy doesn’t subscribe to the “one-pill-for-all” mentality. The right preparation needs to be taken for symptoms. For example, a headache may be caused by many things (physical, emotional or physiological). One must identify what the source of the issue is in order to address the headache rather than simply take a pill. To be honest, most people are far too impatient.

Dr. David Reilly of the Glasgow Homeopathic Hospital in Great Britain said, regarding the efficacy of homeopathic preparations, “there were positive findings in 70 percent of a further 180 clinical trials. I hope this will encourage doctors to examine the volume of evidence supporting homeopathy—they might be surprised.”

Is homeopathy really proven to be effective? You be the judge...

- The worldwide influenza epidemic of 1918 killed 22 million people worldwide. The death rate was 30%, or higher, for those treated conventionally, while homeopaths had an amazing 98% success rate with their patients!
- During Europe’s Cholera and Typhus epidemics (from the 1860’s to the early 1900’s) people using homeopathy had survival rates 50%, or higher, than those treated with conventional medicine.
- In an epidemic of Typhus in Leipzig (1813), Dr. Hahnemann (the “Father of Homeopathy”) treated 180 cases (losing only two patients). Mortality rates for conventional treatment were over 30%.

- During the cholera epidemic 1849 in Cincinnati, with survival rates between 40-52%, those treated by homeopathy had a 97% survival.
- In the Buenos Aires polio epidemic of 1957 the homeopathic remedy “Lathyrus” was given to thousands of people. Not one case of polio was reported among these individuals.
- During Iowa’s smallpox epidemic of 1902, 15 doctors administered the homeopathic remedy “Variolinum” to 2,806 patients. The protection rate was 97%!

- During a typhus epidemic in 1813, Dr. Hahnemann cured 179 of 180 cases.

Vitamin & Mineral Combinations

Even the developed world is not getting adequate nutrition. Every year the soil is being depleted of its life sustaining elements and minerals. In just the last 50 years 50% of the topsoil needed for food production has been destroyed through the overuse of inorganic fertilizers, erosion, and short sighted farming practices. The U.S Department of Agriculture said as much in its 2010 dietary guidelines saying that Americans aren't getting the nutrients they need to stay healthy.

This is truly a critical situation. Each specific vitamin or mineral deficiency in the food supply results in a negative health consequence. For example:

- A lack of vitamin K inhibits the production of proteins needed for proper muscle growth and maintenance.
- A lack of vitamin C drastically impacts the immune system.
- A lack of vitamin D opens one up to a potential for rickets, and similar disorders, in children, and osteoporosis and fractures in mature adults. This particular deficiency also has a lot to do with overall emotional well-being and puts one at an increased risk for diabetes, multiple sclerosis, rheumatoid arthritis, hypertension, cardiovascular heart disease, and many common deadly cancers.

THE SOLUTION

We need to seek the best nutrition possible; choosing whole-grains, avoiding trans-fats, limiting sugar intake, and opting for organic fruits and vegetables. However, this only goes part of the way. Additional vitamins and minerals are inevitably needed.

When choosing proper supplementation it is very important to choose wisely. Many supplement brands available at popular discount stores are attractive to clients due to their accessibility and lower price point. However, when testing these products many turn out to be outstandingly ineffective and some even contain harmful levels of mold and bacteria due to poor storage and processing standards. It is very important to choose only products, which contain pure raw materials, are processed by quality processing standards, and are proven to be effective and strong formulas. With its consistent results and high standard of product efficacy, the Standard Enzyme brand of natural supplements has become synonymous with dependability. Its over 90 vitamin and mineral products reflect this commitment to excellence. The elite SEC product line is only available through health care professionals and has become the "go-to" line for those who are truly committed to their health care.

AMINO ACIDS

Amino-acids are the figurative building blocks of the body. Scientifically, they are molecules containing key elements of carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, and nitrogen. Just as letters in the alphabet can be combined to form an almost endless variety of words, amino-acids can be linked together in varying sequences to form a vast variety of proteins.

For these, and so many other reasons, amino-acids are deemed critical to life. They carry oxygen throughout the body, and serve many functions, from repairing tissue, to combating invading bacteria and viruses. They also play a critical role in metabolism function.

Of the 22 standard amino-acids, nine are called essential amino-acids (i.e., histidine, isoleucine, leucine, lysine, methionine, phenylalanine, threonine, tryptophan, and valine). Because the human body cannot synthesize them at the level needed for normal growth, they must be obtained from food or nutritional supplements on a fairly regular basis, in order to maintain health.

Non-essential amino acids are those that can be produced by the body. They are different from essential amino acids that are obtained from sources outside of the body. Don't be confused; however, there is nothing "non-essential" about these amino acids. The term is simply attached to them because a healthy body is generally able to create them on its own.

Vitamin & Mineral Combinations

What's the difference between vitamins and minerals?

- Vitamins are organic compounds and minerals are inorganic
- Vitamins and minerals perform different functions for the body, for example, vitamins aid in releasing energy from food, developing red blood cells, blood clotting, and maintaining healthy skin, eyes, and hair. Minerals can help in bone and tooth formation, blood coagulation, muscle contraction, and also in keeping acid-alkaline balance in the blood.
- Vitamins come from plants and animals, whereas minerals come from soil and water.
- Vitamins can be differentiated as water soluble and fat-soluble. Minerals on the other hand can be divided into macro minerals and trace minerals. Water-soluble vitamins have to be taken with water and they are not stored in the body. But fat-soluble vitamins get dissolved in the body's fat cells and get stored. Macro minerals are those minerals that are needed in large amounts by the body. Trace minerals are needed only in small quantities.

- While cooking, vitamins are easily destroyed because of heat or chemical agents; minerals are not vulnerable to heat, chemical reactions or sunlight.

An Innovative Health Technology

Energy Patches are a new and interesting, non-drug, non-chemical, natural health technology. The patch material was specially designed for NASA to line their space suits. When used to make an energy patch, it is programmed with the frequencies of nature to help the body energize itself. The adhesive is FDA approved for use on human skin and is hypo allergenic and waterproof.

Wearing the Energy Patch is somewhat like wearing a mobile software app that retrains the automatic programs that run our body's operational systems. These frequencies communicate with, and enhance, the body's natural energetic systems to help balance cellular communication thus promoting maximum health.

PAIN & INFLAMMATION

Supports:

This patch is designed to address inflammation in the body without the use of sometimes harmful and addictive medication. It provides essential bio-frequencies designed to stimulate nerves and block pain signals being sent by the injury site. Consider using when experiencing pain associated with normal activity (e.g. leg cramps, back pain, shoulder pain, knee pain, carpal tunnel, achy joints, ankle pain, pain when walking) and for lack of energy.

HPT Urine Detecting Kit

Suggested Usage:

The pain and inflammation patch is to applied to wherever the pain is located to eliminate pain associated with inflammation. The patch may be placed directly on the area of pain clean/dry skin. Additional patches may be added for severe pain. Each patch is made to last for 3 days, then be replaced.

RELAX

It has been infused with the frequencies of medical cannabis (CBD) to support the way the brain and body handle stress, pain, and long term chronic medical illness by Bio Energy Synthesis Technology. This process adds an energetic charge that holds natural frequencies. This energy is programmed on proprietary material that contains 22.8% carbon alloy elements by our patented AFG (Accelerator Frequency Generator).

The Relax Patch is considered a complementary therapy. It will heighten some analgesic effects, and may be helpful treating chronic pain or vomiting and nausea by chemotherapy.

Consider using when experiencing chronic stress and worry.

Suggested Usage: The Relax patch is to be applied to clean, dry skin, on the left shoulder (to heighten the relaxing effects). It is made to last for up to 3 days and then be discarded or replaced.

- There is a 98% correlation with cancer when Tyrosine kinase is elevated in urine.
- Abnormal metabolic activity can be detected in the first 6 months prior to massive cell replication.
- This precious time can be used to implement an effective treatment protocol. Knowledge is power. *

Flower Essence Remedies

Dr. Edward Bach, 1930's physician, pathologist, bacteriologist, and homeopath, firmly believed that the failure of modern medicine "is that it is dealing with results and not causes." He believed that diseases of the body come about as a result of imbalances, or negativity, in one's life. He set out to prove that by correcting the problem at one's core...harmony would result in the body. His famous quote was: "Seek the outstanding mental conflict in the person, give him the remedy that will overcome that conflict and all the hope and encouragement you can, then the virtue within him will, itself do all the rest."

Many forms of ancient medicine have utilized plants, and plant extracts, however, Bach's harvesting method was somewhat revolutionary. At the beginning of his research he collected dew from the petals of flowers. From his case studies, he could see that the dew, containing some of the curative properties of the plant, was very medicinal.

In order to produce greater quantities of these essences Bach developed a process called "mother tincture". He lightly boiled the flowers, or allowed them to "steep" in the sun. He added two ingredients to this mixture; water and brandy (for preservation). Bach believed that this "mother tincture" process provided the flower essences with a perfect balance of four essential elements:

- The earth nurtures the plant.
- The air feeds the plant.
- The sun, or fire, imparts power to the plant.
- The water enriches the plant with magnetic healing properties.

Bach Flower Essences are similar to homeopathic remedies in that they are diluted and "potentized" to increase their effectiveness. They are also considered to be a "vibrational medicine," and they rely on the concept of water memory. For this reason they are labeled as homeopathics. Homeopathics follow certain precepts, such as the "law of similars," and the process of "succussing" (or shaking) the product. Bach Flowers, however, do not follow these precepts. Since the 1970's companies have researched and produced additional flower essences derived from flower essences native to such areas as North America, Hawaii and Australia. However, the original 38 Bach Flower Remedies still remain at the core of all flower essences.

Dr. Bach developed a system detailing seven major emotional groups (i.e. fear, loneliness, insufficient interest in present circumstances, despondency and despair, uncertainty, over sensitivity to influences and ideas, overcare for the welfare of others) under which people could be classified. He categorized 38 negative states of mind under these groups. Utilizing his knowledge of homeopathy, Dr. Bach formulated a plant, or flower, based remedy to treat each of these emotional states. These are the unique "Bach Flower Remedies".

One well-chosen remedy can be very powerful. Certain groupings of remedies have also reaped good results when treating a single condition. Take the emotional state of "fear," for example. Several helpful herbals come to mind; Rock Rose for panic or fear, Aspen for groundless fears, and Mimulus for fear of unknown causes. Together these three will generally cover most facets of "fear".

Rescue Remedy is probably the most well-known and widely used flower essence combination. It is comprised of Rock Rose (for panic), Clematis (for being ungrounded), Impatiens (for tension), Cherry Plum (for fear of losing control), and Star of Bethlehem (for trauma and numbness). This combination, you can imagine, is perfect for mothers in labor.

Flower Essences are also a great alternative for children and pets. Caretakers can often detect moods of agitation, fear, trauma, low self-esteem, and shyness. Nightmares, hyperactivity, or other behavioral issues may seem to be issues. However, it's impossible to be sure. With EDS Technology you can pinpoint the issues and help your clients to see exactly what "essence" will work, how long it should be taken, and in what quantity. Generally, four drops can be applied to the gums four times a day for about six to eight weeks (for small children and animals).

Since our flower essences are free of toxins and preservatives and are non-habit forming, they are also completely safe. One cannot overdose; however, more is not necessarily better.

Flower Essences always work best when taken as directed, over a period of time and usually three to four times daily. If the wrong essence is taken nothing bad will happen. Your client just won't be working on the specific energy level that they are having the problem with.

Whichever flower essence you choose for your client, you can rest assured that Standard Enzyme provides only high quality, natural ingredients which are field tested, toxin and preservative free.

Phenolic Isodes

Phenolic isodes are homeopathic preparations meant to either desensitize an allergy, or to regulate the body's production and utilization of a hormone or neurotransmitter. They are "normalizers," meaning they help to normalize the body's reaction to an allergen or the manufacture and use of body chemicals.

Neurotransmitters

A neurotransmitter is a chemical produced by the brain and is meant to bring about certain physiological changes and patterns in the body. They help us to think clearly, experience pleasure, be attentive, and they also are responsible for euphoria and intoxication caused by addictive drugs and alcohol. An imbalance in the production and utilization of them can cause the brain to swing too far one way in its emotional state.

A phenolic isode gives the body "a picture" of a balanced state. The body looks at this "picture" and triggers changes to take place in the body to modify its production and utilization of, in this case, the neurotransmitter. The wonderful thing about this is that we really do not need to know whether the body is using too much, or too little, of the neurotransmitter. Nature always seeks a balance. When we take the phenolic isode the body will try to balance the neurotransmitter which matches the remedy given.

Phenolic isode neurotransmitters available from Standard Enzyme include: ACC (Acetyl Choline Chloride), Dopamine, GABA (Gamma-Amino Butyric Acid), L-Dopa, and Serotonin.

Hormones

A hormone is a chemical produced by an endocrine gland which is released directly into the bloodstream to stimulate other organs and glands. Epinephrine (adrenaline), for example, controls the speed at which our body works. The male sex hormone, testosterone, is used by athletes to improve performance. The female hormones, estrogen and progesterone aid in the regulation of the menstrual cycle and fertility. If the male produces too much testosterone, he will be aggressive and angry; too little, and he will tend to be effeminate. If a female has an imbalance in her estrogen and progesterone, her menstrual cycle will be off and she may experience severe PMS.

Phenolic isode hormones available from Standard Enzyme include: Estrogen, Melatonin, Norepinephrine, Progesterone, and Testosterone.

Allergens

An allergen is a chemical which causes an allergic reaction. These chemicals can occur naturally in foods or may be synthetic in nature. When someone has an allergic reaction, their body is basically saying, "I don't know how to deal with this compound, so I will put out histamine from my cells for their protection and shut down the affected system(s)."

The allergic reaction causes the body to be unhealthy, because, now the kidneys, liver, pancreas, organs and/or glands cease to function properly. Non-functioning organs cause toxins to be built-up in the bloodstream, and these toxins poison the other organs, glands, and systems of the body- especially the brain. These toxins then cause the other organs and glands to function improperly because they are now choked with waste material.

Allergies can cause symptoms ranging from upset stomach and/or a runny nose to much more serious conditions such as kidney failure and/or anaphylactic shock. Also, hyperactivity, ADD, ADHD, and depression have been linked to allergies in recent years. The phenolic isode allows the body to become familiar with the toxin energetically without having to endure the physical effects of the toxin. This way when you encounter allergens in the future, your body will no longer react in this manner.

Herbal Supplements

Herbal medicine has been around for as long as there have been plants and people together on this earth.

The very word “drug” has a root meaning of “to dry” due to the fact that early pharmacists, doctors and healers would dry medicinal plants and use them in their practices. Today many modern countries use this ancient form of medicine as a matter of course. The World Health Organization estimated that 80% of people worldwide rely on herbal medicines for some part of their primary health care.

Herbal supplements are classified as dietary supplements by the U.S. Dietary Supplement Health and Education Act (DSHEA) of 1994.

The Benefits

By skillful selection of herbs a profound transformation in health can be effected with fewer side effects than with drug-based medicine. With a track record thousands of year’s long herbal medicine has proven to be very successful in addressing a host of health conditions. It works with the body, (rather than attacking it) to restore optimal function of its immune and digestive systems as well as its organs. With fewer side effects, herbal medicine is also far safer for long term use. This gentle support, and preventative care, is simply not available with conventional medicine.

According to Andrew Weil, M.D., of Tucson, Arizona, “herbs and plants use an indirect route to the bloodstream and target organs, their effects are usually slower in the onset and less dramatic than those of purified drugs...” However, the common assumption that herbs act slowly and mildly is not necessarily true. Results may simply vary due to the practitioner one goes to and the quality of the herbal medicine chosen.

Why Use Quality Herbs?

Standard Enzyme Company produces quality herbal products utilizing the unique “spagyric process.” The result is a more effective, potent blend. The word “spagyric” is formed from two Greek words: “spao” (to draw out) and “ageiro” (to combine). It is a method of extraction meant to deliver all of an herb’s nutritional properties. The resulting extract is particularly robust and mineral rich; unlike the typical infusion extract (i.e. botanical material is chopped and steeped in a solvent. Then it is pressed, and fibrous residue is discarded, wasting a great deal of valuable mineral).

In the “spagyric process,” the raw materials are run through a solution to release their active components and make them more bioavailable. Then, the herbs, and solution, are placed in a 50,000 psi press to extract out all of the liquid. The fibrous residue left on the press is collected and reduced to an ash. These minerals are then infused into the liquid extract to become a “whole” balanced extract. The finished blend is a full-potency, maximum performance, fast acting liquid formula. The end result not only recombines the components to make a “complete” herb, but it actually is more potent than the original because of the “bio-availability” of all of the herb’s components.
